Membership Divided Into Teams For Community
Chest Drive

Don Guilley was elected president of the Salem Junior Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Wednesday night in the Memorial building. The group, organized a little more than a month ago, already has a membership of more than 65 young men who are between the ages of 18 and 35.

Other officers elected include: first vice president, Gene Young; second vice president, James Jackson; secretary, Deane Beck; treasurer, Grein Naragon.

Two-year directors, Atty Lozier, Captain Herbert Brown and Ray Egan; one-year directors, Richard Seidel, John Simpson and Brooke Phillips.

Application for charters from the state and national Junior Chambers of Commerce has been made and will be presented at a dinner which has been postponed from tomorrow night to Friday night, June 3.

The date was advanced to permit Phillip C. Eberling, of Dayton, former state president and now a national junior chamber officer, to be present. He will deliver the charters while officers from other Junior C. of C. groups in the state will assist in the officers' installation. Visitors are expected from as far as Cincinnati.

Arrangements for the dinner are being made by the social committee, headed by James Jackson. At the meeting last night, Gene Young and Lozier Caplan, captains of the Junior C. of C. community chest teams, divided the membership in half for the drive. The junior chamber members will contact persons in the residential district.

Protest Proposed
Sale Of Old School

LISBON, May 19.—A petition to restrain the Unity township board of education from selling what is known as Chain school, was filed in the clerk of courts office this morning by Willis and Elizabeth Burt of R. D. 1, East Palestine.

Members of the board, O. T. Wright, A. C. Taylor, George Beck, Solomon Wilhelm and Samuel Miller, have advertised the sale of May 24 of the two-and-one-half acre tract and abandoned school building.

The plaintiffs allege the sale will violate an agreement of 1903, by which the school was sold to the township, and that the place be used as a school house and for no other purpose.

Two of the strikers are pictured taking time out for sleep. Mayor Harold H. Burton, at right below, confers with Representative A. Lee Fair of Holmes county, chairman of the investigating committee. Probers sought evidence of "chiselers, inefficiency and extravagance" in Cleveland's relief administration. Mayor Burton, "pleased by the investigation", gave the committee his co-operation.

PENNSY BATTLE LEAVES WOUNDS

Comments On Primary
Voting Reveal Varied
Reactions

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Wounds of Pennsylvania's Democratic primary campaign fight were slow to heal today in the face of a united front quickly mustered by Republicans for the November general election.

Labor Leader John L. Lewis and Senator Joseph F. Guffey, whose candidates were repulsed by a slate of the Democratic state committee, refrained from announcing their position in the fall inter-party struggle.

Deny Repudiation
Thomas Kennedy, the defeated Lewis-Guffey gubernatorial candidate, and other state CIO leaders issued statements denying the vote constituted repudiation of their program, but they made no commitments on the November lineup.

Republicans, overcoming their own factional difficulties, were jubilant. In Washington, national chairman of the two parties exchanged caustic comment.

Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee said in a statement the results showed the "handwriting on the wall" for the New Deal and indicated "certain victory" for his party in Pennsylvania's general election.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, setting out to restore New Deal harmony in the state, made this retort: "The Republican national chairman is, I suppose, with-in his political rights in making an idiotic prophecy." Farley recalled Hamilton's 1936 election night statement that Alf Landon had been elected.

Hamilton based his argument chiefly on the point that the Republican turnout of voters Tuesday.

CITY IS LASHED BY RAINSTORM; SEWERS TAXED

Total Precipitation of 2.46
Inches Is Recorded
Here

OVERFLOW FILLS
YARDS, CELLARS

City Service Department
Workers Begin Mop-
up This Afternoon

A sudden downpour of rain this morning, which brought a total precipitation of 2.46 inches, flooded streets throughout the city and overtaxed the capacity of the city's storm sewer system.

Service Director Frank Wilson said the rain, which started about 5:30, came so fast the sewers could not handle the flow. The water ran over streets and flooded low spots. Manhole covers were forced off on lower S. Ellsworth ave. Another man-hole cover was "blown" at the corner of Vine ave. and E. State st.

Buttermilk run west of N. Ellsworth ave. ran rampant over several streets. Water was deep in many cellars. The service director said that although he had received complaints from persons in all sections of the city, the industrial plants did not report any trouble.

Year's Rain Record

At the disposal plant where temperature records are kept by Robert Howell, the 2.46 inches precipitation was reported the most in 24 hours since Jan. 25, 1937, during the Ohio river flood, when 2.51 inches were recorded. The high, Howell's records show, was in July 24, 1936, when a downpour brought 3.72 inches.

Meanwhile, service department workers this afternoon assumed the task of cleaning the streets of debris washed up by the rain.

Service Director Wilson also announced that the rain had caused a delay in the city's annual cleanup which began Tuesday. No loads were picked up today. The service department workers gathered up 22 loads of refuse the first day and as many more the second.

School officials did not count tardiness against pupils who came in late this morning because of the storm. No lightning damage was reported in the district.

Summit Bridges Washed Out

AKRON, May 19.—Heavy rain-fall washed out seven Summit county bridges today, endangering at least two families who were rescued and forced shutdown of the Twin Coach Co. plant at Kent.

Arthur Ranney, county engineer, estimated damage at $200,000.

The weather bureau reported an overnight rainfall of 1.35 inches, which caused the Cuyahoga river to leave its banks in some low-lying sections. Rainfall since Saturday has been 2.86 inches.

Twin Coach Co. plant shut down when high water flooded its boiler room.

Operations of the Akron, Canton and Youngstown railway were suspended because of mud washed over the tracks north of Akron.

The largest bridge washed out was a 70-foot high steel structure on the Cuyahoga river near Everett, north of here.

ROBBERY AIRED IN MARINO CASE

Court Hears Gang Victim Was Accused In Wheeling, W. Va., Theft

YOUNGSTOWN, May 19.—A court heard today that Roy (Happy) Marino, Youngstown racketeer taken for a one-way gangland "ride" last September, was one of three men accused by Mike Russell, late Wheeling, W. Va., policy racket king, in a $35,000 robbery.

Charles Calaris, an acquaintance of Marino and former associate of John Anthonis of Steubenville, so testified today. Anthonis is the first of five men indicted for the Marino murder to go on trial.

"Didn't Mike Russell accuse you, Happy Marino and John O'Boyle of stealing $35,000 from his safe?" Attorney John Nolan of Steubenville, of the Anthonis counsel, asked Calaris.

"Yes," Calaris said.

"And wasn't it just a couple of months after this that Mike Russell was killed—murdered?" Nolan demanded.

"No, it was a year," Calaris said. Asked if he knew that Marino was "tied up with Big Bill Lias" in the Wheeling W. Va., policy racket, Calaris answered "no."

Calaris and Jack Sperry, who said he was at one time employed by Anthonis in repairing slot machines and collecting money, were state witnesses this morning after Edward F. Heggett, alias Arthur Snyder, the state's star witness, was dismissed.

Nine Met Death When This New Airliner Crashed

Four Women, Two Children, Three Men Killed in This Smashup

Wrecked on a mountainside near Burbank, Cal., the new $88,000 Lockheed luxury airliner that was missing for three days was found a twisted and charred mass, its nine occupants, including four women and two children, all dead. The plane, which had started for St. Paul to be delivered to Northwest Airlines, was lost in a fog and was not on a regularly beamed passenger route. All aboard were either airline employees or relatives of officials.

CORONER OPENS CRASH INQUIRY

Witnesses Say They Saw Plane Not More Than 500 Feet In Air

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—The tragic question of why a new $80,000 transport plane killed nine persons in a crash on a fog-hidden Mint canyon ridge while commercial air liners flew safely at higher altitudes, was asked today by Coroner Frank A. Nance on the eve of a public inquest.

"I have talked to witnesses who said they saw the plane flying not more than 500 feet from the ground," Nance said. "Under those circumstances, I believe it proper for this office to hold an investigation."

The inquest tomorrow in a San Fernando mortuary will be the only public inquiry. Bureau of air commerce officials are preparing a report for Washington headquarters.

The wrecked plane, a 14-passenger, twin-motored Lockheed, which had been redesigned since it was first built last July, carried three men, four women and two children to flaming death only 30 air miles from its takeoff at Union Air Terminal, Burbank, Monday afternoon.

Heavy fog delayed finding the plane until yesterday morning. It had been bought by Northwest Airlines for formal delivery at Las Vegas, Nev., outside California where there is a 3 per cent sales tax. All aboard were non-paying passengers, either employees of Lockheed and Northwest or their relatives.

Before departure, Sid Willey, Lockheed test pilot, had informed the Union Air terminal he would fly "contact" over the mountainous terrain to the Mojave desert, whence he would continue on the radio beam to Las Vegas.

The Lockheed left four minutes ahead of a Western Air Express liner, bound for the same destination, which flew at high altitudes above the fog and followed the radio beam the entire distance.

SUCHOW AFLAME IN JAPS' DRIVE

Invaders Claim Possession
Of Greater Part
Of City

(By Associated Press)
SHANGHAI, May 19.—Large sections of Suchow were reported burning fiercely today as Japanese, claiming possession of most of the city, fought hand-to-hand with Chinese "dare to die" units in the southern suburbs.

Japanese aviators said the strategic city, viewed from the air, was a blob of smoke created by jagged flames.

They said naval planes bombing from a low altitude scored a direct hit on what apparently was the main munitions storehouse, sending flames and smoke hundreds of feet into the air.

Another tremendous fire, also apparently from a powder magazine, was reported in the southeastern section of the city.

All the city except the southern part, where fighting continued, was said by the Japanese to have been occupied within a few hours after they stormed the wall and poured into the vital central China rail junction.

They launched their first infantry attack during the early morning hours and by 9 a. m. had captured the west wall. By noon they reported they had taken a large part of the city in hand-to-hand street fighting and had possession of both the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow railway stations.

Severe fighting was reported spreading to the south suburbs, where Chinese "dare to die" units were counter-attacking in an effort to enable the main Chinese forces to withdraw southward and escape annihilation.

HUGE FEDERAL DEFICIT SEEN WITH SPENDING

$3,400,000,000 "Set-back"
Estimated For Year Beginning July 1st

SUM TO DOUBLE
CURRENT YEAR'S

Senate Begins Debate On Relief And Public Works Monday

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Informed officials tentatively forecast today a $3,400,000,000 federal deficit in the fiscal year beginning July 1, as a result of the huge spending program now before congress.

That would be slightly more than double the anticipated shortage for the current year, but would be below the deficits of 1934, 1935 and 1936. The peak peacetime deficit, swollen by bonus payments, was $4,638,420,000 in the year ended June 30, 1936.

Roughly, the next year's expenditures have been set at about $8,900,000,000 and receipts at about $5,500,000,000.

Allows For Shrinkage

The tentative estimate, it was learned, allowed for a $400,000,000 shrinkage in revenues and a $2,650,000,000 increase in expenditures, compared with the preliminary figures submitted to congress by the President in January. The January estimates contemplated a $950,000,000 deficit.

The figures remain uncertain because relief needs can not be predicted accurately at this time. The president has asked $1,250,000,000 to run WPA from July 1 to Feb. 1.

If all the money asked by the President in his spending message were calculated in estimating next year's deficit, a shortage of approximately $4,100,000,000 would be indicated. Officials explained, however, that actual expenditures seldom are as high as appropriations, and much of the $1,000,000,000 allocated for public works probably will not be spent until the following year.

Another item that might upset the budget calculations is the potential $1,500,000,000 lending program of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Present estimates do not include this project because of an assumption that the RFC will revert to borrowing from the public instead of the treasury.

Finishes Hearings

A senate appropriations subcommittee finished hearings yesterday on the administration's $3,000,000,000 relief and public works bill. Senate debate will begin next Monday.

Senator Bridges (R-NH) proposed an amendment to let the government buy from cities and counties their claims to uncollected local taxes. This would act as a powerful stimulant to recovery, he declared, suggesting that about $750,000,000 be earmarked for that purpose.

President George H. Davis of the United States Chamber of Commerce said last night that "there is a vast difference between 'pump priming' and the expenditure of adequate funds for adequate relief of those in distress."

Declaring the chamber "has never opposed adequate spending for necessary relief," Davis added in a statement that the legislation was "written on the theory that this spending of public money will replace the normal outlay of private enterprise not now being made by reason of depressed business conditions."

Other Expenses Listed
The home service and ex-service department cost $2,160; office maintenance, rent and new supplies, $1,241.69; bedside nursing department, $2,141.71; miscellaneous expenses, $157.90.

Salem chapter established its first First Aid station on the Lisbon road during the year and one class in First Aid was taught by Dr. L. C. Ziegler.

Many donations of new clothing and shoes, second-hand clothing and furniture have been received. The clothing, second-hand clothing valued at $238, and used furniture and household furnishings valued at $109.

Shirts have been cut and made by the sewing committee headed by Mrs. O. C. Juergens. Comforts have been pieced by some of the city's elderly women and the quilting of the comforts was taken care of by Mrs. Juergens.

Aid Families With Illness
The Loan Chest has been valuable to families having illness. Last winter 336 articles were loaned to 94 families. The Loan Chest supplies hospital beds and practically everything needed in a sick room.

Twelve comfort bags were sent to veterans hospitals for ex-service patients.

Girls in the sewing class of Junior High school made baby layettes. Mrs. Lulu McCarthy supervising the sewing. They also dressed some of the Red Cross dolls at Christmas time.

The knitting committee, headed by Mrs. Louis Bloomberg, was active during the year. Fifteen beanies and nine sweaters were sent to veterans' hospitals.

Travelers Aid work has been much heavier the last year than ever before. The chapter's information bureau also is becoming popular.

Most of the funds supporting all this work come from the Community Chest, which this year is allotted $4,500.

A POINT MADE

Important among lessons in United States constitutional government which must be learned before the system will work is this:

That the function of the supreme court is to see that laws are applied equitably, consistent with constitutional principles.

In the last few years the supreme court has ruled sometimes for, sometimes against, the ideology of the new deal. The court's rulings have been made, to the best of its members' ability, in the interest of preserving constitutional government.

The court's purpose in the scheme of things is not to uphold factions, movements, individuals, or the ideas of individuals, but the structure of law on which government is erected. It is the guardian of this government of laws.

Last Monday, the court upheld the national labor relations act in a test case to determine whether or not employers may discriminate against unionists in offering reemployment to workers after a strike. It said that men who have gone on strike are entitled to the act's protection.

This does not mean necessarily that individuals on the court are in sympathy with the labor relations act, which clearly is too one-sided to be good legislation. It does mean that as long as the act is in force the court will uphold it when it is applied properly.

If that point has been made clear to persons who have criticized the court for upholding the law in other cases, instead of their own ideas, an important step in educating the people in the proper use of constitutional government has been registered.

OUR BRITISH COUSINS

On the optimistic side, Americans, trying to understand which way the wheels inside the wheels of British diplomacy are turning, hope Konrad Henlein's visit to London may avert a Czech crisis, which almost certainly would bring war. Henlein, leader of the German minority in Czechoslovakia, may return to Prague sobered by his responsibilities.

On the pessimistic side, Americans can't forget that Henlein has been doing his best to hasten a Czech crisis, particularly since Germany's occupation of Austria. He has been working hand in glove with Fuehrer Hitler and the Nazi strategists to make Czechoslovakia bow to the swastika.

So the question takes form: What is it our British cousins intend to do? They cannot support fascism in all its works without seeming, at least, to become fascists. Nor do they, according to the belief of the Chamberlain government, dare to resist fascism at the expense of precipitating war.

The impression deepens that it will take all the "muddling through" which has been developed throughout centuries of practice to bring Britain out of its present mess in a recognizable form.

IT'S BETTER THIS WAY

Over in New Jersey, legislators are having hives. Itches and hot and cold flashes over a proposal to make all holidays fall on the nearest Monday.

They won't get to first base, of course, and they shouldn't. It's better the way it is, with holidays falling here and there in the calendar and occasionally on Monday (Sunday's almost as good, because Monday then is a holiday anyway.)

One never knows what's in store till one looks through the calendar—does one? Memorial day this year's on Monday. So is Independence day. Labor day, of course, always is on Monday. Christmas comes on Sunday. This is a red letter year.

Next year, Christmas comes on Monday, and the two patriotic holidays fall on Tuesday. In 1940, they come on Thursday; Christmas falls on Wednesday. They keep moving up, till 1943, when Independence day and the Fourth come on Sunday, and Christmas comes on Saturday. That will be quite a year. So will 1944. Waiting will be half the fun of enjoying those long weekends.

THE MARTIAL TIDE

Reports that China is losing its greatest battle of the undeclared war with Japan—the defense of the key city of Suchow—are received indifferently in this country.

Americans have made up their minds that no matter how many battles the Japs win they will lose the war. Possibly they underestimate Japan's military strength, perhaps they overestimate China's tenacity, but that is the conclusion they've reached.

SPARKS FLY IN FRANCO-ITALIAN NEGOTIATIONS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press Foreign Affairs

Writer

NEW YORK, May 19—As was to be expected, the Franco-Italian negotiations for a pact of amity have not proceeded far before sparks have begun to fly.

The reasons for the existing hostility between these two big neighbors are so many and the situation is so complicated that one is reminded of Thomas Brown's famous lines:

I do not love thee, Doctor Fell,
The reason why I cannot tell;
But this alone I know full well,
I do not love thee, Doctor Fell.

The War In Spain

Still, it isn't necessary to depend on such vague whimsicality for explanation of the mutual animosity and distrust between Paris and Rome.

The latest shot came from Mussolini the other day at Genoa. He said it wasn't known whether the Franco-Italian negotiations would reach a conclusion, "because in the present circumstances, concerning the war in Spain, we are on opposite sides of the barricades."

On top of that heat-producing remark came word that the parley had deadlocked over two demands by the Italian dictator: (1) That France recognize insurgent Chief Francisco Franco as master of all Spain, and (2) that France assure Italy equal governing rights in the Tunisian protectorate in northern Africa.

France charges that Italy is getting ready to try to annex French territory in northern Africa, and advances as part substantiation that Mussolini has been stirring the natives in French territory to revolt.

France is increasing her native troops in Africa by 60,000. Italy's North African troops are to conduct maneuvers in the western part of Italian Libya, near Tunisia.

Mussolini Backs France

Mussolini has backed the Fascist Generalissimo Franco in Spain, while French sympathies and "unofficial" aid have gone to the so-called loyalist government of Madrid.

There are several reasons for this Franco-Italian clash. One is:

Mistaken or not in their thinking, they attach great importance to the fact that the impending Japanese victory at Suchow was gained only at tremendous cost and desperate effort. If every important city remaining to be conquered—and most of them are further from the coast than Suchow—can be defended as successfully, the Japanese cannot expect to win more than a Pyrrhic victory.

The martial tide in the orient may ebb and flow, but the notion persists that China will not be swept into the arms of the warriors of the rising sun.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, May 20

The planetary operations for this day must be interpreted as rather adverse. Although there are signs of fairly encouraging financial prospects, yet there are indications of delays, disappointments, treachery and other intriguing and afflicting circumstances. Jealousy, quarrels and duplicity may enter into business and private affairs. Be very cautious with all writings, documents and also with speech.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which some form of adversity may strike some fairly auspicious financial conditions. A bereavement may bring delays and disappointments. Beware of deceit and jealousy and be very cautious with speech and writings, using utmost care in signing documents.

A child born on this day may have a very difficult nature to understand and develop. While it may be imaginative, visionary, quick at emotional upsets, yet it should be democratic and altruistic. But its prejudices and eccentricities, its treacheries and turbulence, may put it in the problem-child class, demanding the earliest analysis, discipline and direction.

G. O. P. Leaders Plan Survey on Major Issues

Committee in session at Chicago

When members of the Republican program committee met in Chicago, above, to draw up a platform for the party, they adopted the unique idea of a national referendum to "sound out" constituents on their political sentiments. A survey will be taken with the idea of discovering the attitude of voters on various major issues and the information used as a basis for the 1940 party program. Those present at the Chicago meeting included, left to right, seated, John Trumbull, of Connecticut; J. Sam White, of Nebraska, N. C.; Glenn Frank, committee chairman from Wisconsin; Mrs. Chester Bolton, of Cleveland; H. Alexander Smith, of Princeton, N. J.; Standing, rear, H. G. Hogan, of Fort Wayne, Ind.; W. J. Goodwin, Des Moines, Ia.; Frank Altkhull, financial chairman, Hartford, Conn.; Chester Rowell, of San Francisco; James Douglas and William Hard of Chicago.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

Let me tell you something about this disease and how modern science has perfected certain measures to guard against the disease. All health authorities agree that diphtheria is no longer so prevalent as it once was. It is far less fatal than in former years. Personally, I shiver when I recall the ravages of the disease at the time I began medical practice.

Parents Reject Science But the disease is still in our midst and continues to be a terrible menace. Why? Sad to say, it is because parents do not take advantage of what medical science offers.

There is no doubt that diphtheria could be wiped out if every child received immunization against it. The child having the inoculation with the diphtheria toxoid builds up a resistance against the disease. This protection is desperately needed because we never know when a child may be exposed to the germs of diphtheria.

Many children possess a natural immunization against the disease, but it is wise to know whether this is the case. Sometimes sufficient protection is not developed even after the injections have been given and such children, if exposed to the disease, will contract it. If it were known that they do not possess or have not built up the desired immunization, sufficient injections will be given to guarantee safety.

Test Determines It

The determination of whether or not the child is susceptible to diphtheria is possible by means of the Schick test. It is a simple and painless procedure. All children, regardless of whether or not they have received the immunization treatment, should receive this test. As a rule, this is given six months after the last inoculation. If the test is "positive" it means the child should have a new series of inoculations. Otherwise, exposure will be followed by diphtheria. It is because of the neglect in following up the matter that diphtheria is still with us.

If your child has not received the inoculation against diphtheria, consult with your own doctor or the local board of health immediately. If six months or more have elapsed since the last treatment, check the present condition by means of the Schick test. If every precaution is taken, you can be assured that your child is properly guarded against diphtheria.

(Owing to pressure of other business, Dr. Copeland cannot answer questions from readers.)

Death Claims Star Of Passion Plays

OBERRAMMERGAU, Germany — May 19.—This little Alpine village, known the world over for its passion plays, today mourned the loss of its most famous character, 63-year-old Anton Lang, impersonator of Christ from 1900 to 1930.

Lang died in a Munich hospital last night following an operation for a stomach ailment.

The village council met today to discuss funeral ceremonies. The date for the funeral has not been set.

Lang's successor in this role since 1930 has been Alois Lang, chosen to impersonate the Savior again in the 1940 passion play. Alois Lang is not related to Anton Lang.

In private life Lang operated a simple Bavarian pottery, which his eldest son, Karl, had taken over before his father's death.

Use X-Ray To Save Eyesight Of Baby

CHICAGO, May 19.—Daily X-ray treatments were prescribed today for Baby Helaine Clap in an effort to save her remaining eye.

The baby was taken to her parents' home last night from the hospital where she was born seven weeks ago.

Her left eye was removed May 9 because of glaucoma, a cancerous growth, threatened to spread along the optic nerve to the brain and cause death.

Medical experts said X-ray treatments might preserve the impaired vision of the right eye.

Not So Funny!

Martha Raye... files suit

If you please, do not refer to Martha Raye as "that funny girl with the big mouth". The screen comedienne wants to be known as a glamor girl now, with shapely legs, a lovely voice, etc., and that funny stuff about her mouth is out. Martha filed suit against a picture magazine, asking an injunction against use of her photograph beside that of a chimpanzee, both with mouths ajar, as it were. Here you see Martha as in the old days, and now.

Theater Attractions

George Burns and Gracie Allen in a scene from "College Swing" showing at the State Friday and Saturday.

"College Swing", which shows Friday and Saturday at the State theater, has a large cast of musical comedy favorites headed by Gracie Allen, George Burns and Martha Raye.

In this story of a collegiate nitwit who takes over a leading American university and runs it to suit himself, the three gay clowns are assisted in their antics by Bob Hope, who climbed into the top drawer of stardom by virtue of his single performance as the master of ceremonies in the recent "Big Broadcast of 1938".

The story of "College Swing" is the high-geared fantasy which has always provided Burns and Allen with their most successful material. It opens in Puritan times with a wealthy old New Englander making a will bequeathing the college he has founded to the first female member of his family who passes an examination in it. The camera then slides on down two centuries and shows Gracie, his descendant, getting herself in shape for the big test.

With the aid of a resourceful young student, Bob Hope, Gracie discovers a short-cut to knowledge which would make Einstein look like a piker. She passes the examinations with flying colors and takes control of the university immediately.

Under Gracie's regime, an educational revolution takes place. "Liberal education" is made "liberal" in every sense of the word, with

Search Continues For Bradford Girl

BRADFORD, Pa., May 19—A committee of five citizens set out today to increase to $5,000 the reward for the return of Marjory West, four-year-old daughter of an oil field worker who disappeared May 8 while picking violets in the woods.

Mayor Hugh J. Ryan disclosed state police had narrowed their search for the girl to attempts to identify two automobiles reported in the area about the time the girl wandered from a family picnic.

Ryan said he had received and accepted the offer of aid from a group of Warren, O., residents headed by Lester Smith, a theater executive. He said Smith wrote that Warren men who had hunted deer in the northwestern Pennsylvania woods near this oil producing community were ready to come to Bradford and join the search.

Ford Presses Fight

NEW YORK, May 19—The Ford Motor Co. pressed further today its fight against the National Labor Relations Board with a motion sent to the federal circuit court at Covington, Ky., that board members be required to make depositions on the company's claim that the board, in finding the company guilty of unfair labor practices, denied it a fair hearing, was influenced by politics, consulted with outsiders, and was influenced in judicial functions.

Condemned To Die

CLEVELAND, May 19 — Willie Caldwell, 22, Negro, was condemned today to die in the electric chair Aug. 28 for the murder of Fred Raymond, 67, in a delicatessen holdup here. His alleged companion, Ernest Bryant, will go on trial Monday.

Gracie as "Dean of Men", Martha Raye as a member of the faculty and Hope as "Professor of Applied Romance". He "applies" it to, of all people, Martha, thus forming the screen's newest love team.

Learns About Romance
Edward Everett Horton, fresh from his role as Claudette Colbert's conniving father in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife", plays an important part as the woman-hating multi-millionaire who learns about romance from Gracie and what is even stranger, like it! George Burns appears as his secretary, who is unable to prevent his master from becoming entangled in the wiles of America's most novel "educator".

Showing for the last times tonight at the State is the newest Jones Family comedy, "A Trip to Paris".

At Mooney Hearing

G. W. Grimmer

Testifying before a house subcommittee in Washington in behalf of Tom Mooney and Warren Billings, imprisoned since the Preparedness day bombing in San Francisco 20 years ago, G. W. Grimmer of Los Angeles, Cal., asserted he "was told to testify" that he saw the two men at the scene of the bombing but refused. A plainclothesman, Grimmer said he shadowed Mooney and Billings on the day of the bombing.

U. S. Boxers Triumphant Over Lads From Across Sea In Ring Bouts

CHICAGO, May 19. — Amateur boxers of the United States have repulsed another invasion by their simon-pure rivals from across the seas.

Before 22,234 spectators, the Chicago Golden Gloves squad defeated the European titleholders five bouts to three last night in the seventh international amateur boxing series sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

However, the bouts the invaders won were scored at the expense of three National A. A. U. champions—Dan Merritt, Cleveland Negro heavyweight, Jimmy O'Malley, Chicago welterweight, and Bill Eddy, Flint, Mich., featherweight.

Herbert Runge of Hamburg, Germany, conquered Merritt; Antoni Kokkymaki of Warsaw, Poland, stopped O'Malley in the first round; and John Sanders of Dublin, Ireland, was awarded a decision over Eddy.

DIMAGGIO

Meanwhile, Medwick was going to work in Brooklyn. He wasn't the big show in that game with the Dodgers, but he certainly wasn't anybody's stooge as he contributed a homer and scored four of the runs that gave the Gas Housers a 12-4 decision for their fourth straight win. Don Gutteridge played the part of the No. 1 cannon, belting a homer and a single to drive in five runs.

This boosted the Cardinals into the .500 class for the first time this season, deadlocking them with the idle Cincinnati Reds, who were rained out in Philadelphia, and the Boston Bees, whose Jim Turner gave up a measly five hits to win a long distance 2-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pirates were dropped to third place by this setback, and Jolly Cholly Grimm's Chicago Cubs climbed back to second by topping the Giants, 4-2. Carl Hubbell and Larry French hooked up in a tight pitching duel until the eighth, when Mel Ott made a two-base error to allow Gabby Hartnett, who's no gazelle on those base-paths, to score all the way from second. It was Hubbell's first setback of the year.

Cleveland's Bobby Feller slipped a six-hitter across on the Athletics and the Indians gained a 7-2 victory over Connie Mack's lowly outfit. Wes Ferrell not only pitched six hit ball, but banged out a homer to pace the Senators to a 5-1 victory over the tottering Tigers. The Red Sox and White Sox were rained out in Chicago.

"Tomorrow's" Highways needed NOW!

Route No. 23, Morris County, New Jersey. The accident rate on roads like this is usually only a small fraction of the general average.

... Build them with safe, money-saving CONCRETE

THINK what broad "double-track" highways like this, between principal population areas, would mean to this state.

You may think of such roads as being for a future generation. The fact is, they are urgently needed NOW, not merely to reduce congestion and driving time and permit continued development of this state—not only to reduce accidents and save lives—but to save money!

If properly designed and built of concrete, divided highways like this will pay for themselves through reduced maintenance, saving in time and cost of travel, deaths and injuries prevented, progress insured.

And remember, concrete provides an even, dependable surface, sure traction rain or shine, utmost visibility at night—qualities vital to the protection of you and your family while on the road.

"Love I Dare Not" by ALLENE CORLISS

CHAPTER XXI
Caroline was disliking Tommy intensely now with her eyes. She answered, speaking quite distinctly, "I have thought of that, of course. But if I did marry Alec, it would not be to further my career."

"No, I suppose not. I imagine you are the sort of person who would feel they had to marry for love or not at all."

"While you," said Caroline, and now her voice was frigidly sweet, "would probably marry for any number of things.... money, for instance."

Tommy's face became a slow, angry red. So that was what she thought. That he wanted to get a soft berth for himself.... that he was running around with Roxanne because of her money....

He asked, evenly, "Just what do you mean by that crack, Tommy?" She smiled at him coldly. "Nothing at all. Only everyone knows that Roxanne Talbot is filthy rich and I understand engineering isn't so hot right now."

"Listen," said Tommy, smiling at her contemptuously, "hasn't this gone about far enough? After all, there's no reason why we should sit here and hurl insults at each other."

"For that matter," said Caroline, her voice carefully controlled, "there's no reason why we should sit here at all. Let's leave."

"But you haven't had your dinner."

"I'm getting used to not having any dinner when I am with you...."

Suddenly they were both laughing helplessly. And having begun to laugh, they couldn't seem to stop. So they kept on. For no reason at all. Except that they were both remembering that the only other time he had taken her to dinner she had gone home without it. That it was good to be done with quarreling. That it was good to sit there and be done with anger and look at each other and laugh.

But presently they stopped and Tommy leaned toward her and said abruptly, "See here, do you, or don't you, want to go on to this benefit Alec spoke about?"

"No," said Caroline, meeting his eyes directly, her voice breathless and light, "I don't."

"I didn't think you did," said Tommy. And he thought, "I am probably quite mad, but I have to spend this evening alone with her.... I'll never chisel on Alec again, but for a few hours tonight I have to talk with her and touch her and be alone with her.... I shall be very careful not to make love to her...."

Tommy asked, "Sure you're not cold?"

Caroline shook her head. She had never been less cold in her life. Nor more happy. Except that other time in the taxi cab. That time she had thought it would last. That it would go on and on forever. This time she knew it wouldn't. Presently he would leave her and go back to his own life. That life about which she knew so little.

But for the moment they were together. It was a strange place to be, she supposed. Alone on the top of a Fifth Avenue bus in the midst of a drifting March snowstorm. She still didn't know quite how it had happened. Tommy had said, "My place is out; so is Gina's. Let's blow ourselves to a nice long bus ride."

She thought now that he probably hadn't wanted to be alone with her in either his apartment or Gina's. Yet they were more alone up here on the top of this bus, in the white beauty of this snowstorm, than they would ever have been inside the four walls of any room.

For some time now, Caroline had stopped thinking. She knew that presently she would begin to think again and she would be humiliated and ashamed, very likely, to think she had let him see so easily he could twist her about to please himself. If she had any pride she wouldn't be here—but she didn't have any pride. Not where he was concerned. She hadn't had since that first day.... She had let him see then how much she care, and what had happened? He had walked off and left her. Well, he would walk off again. She knew that now. He had made it plain enough, but for the moment it didn't matter. For the moment nothing mattered very much except that his arm was about her shoulders, that his fingers, warm and hard and vibrant, were crushed about her bare wrist where he had pushed down her soft suede glove. It was good to be close to him like this, it eased for a little while that dull ache in her heart. She could even, by shutting her mind hard on tomorrow and all the days after tomorrow, feel warm and gay and happy.

For some time now, because he did not dare be long silent, Tommy had been talking. He had told her about his life in South America and how much he disliked his present job and how anxious he was to get out of New York and back to mining again.

As their bus rumbled out of the brightness of Madison Square, he said, "I'm twenty-four and I can't afford to be wasting time like this. Every year counts, and I ought to be getting somewhere in my profession and not just marking time in a New York office. I was a fool, of course, to leave the job in South America. I was in line for some decent promotions. Now I'll have to begin all over again with a new outfit, but I'm only asking for the chance."

Caroline frowned a little. "Then the way you have your life planned, you will never be able to live for very long in New York?"

"That's right. I may get back here every three years or so for a couple of months, but that's all. All these jobs are let out on three-year contracts, and most of them are at the ends of the earth. There's a possibility right now that a company may open up a gold mine up near Timmins in a month or so. If they do, I'm hoping to go along."

Caroline, who did not know where Timmins was but thought it sounded much too remote, moved closer to him. "You sound very eager about it. I don't think I had realized before how much your profession meant to you. Really. Except that I like to be with you."

"I like to be with you, too.... but I guess you know that."

"No," said Caroline, "I don't." Then she added, "And that can't be true because you almost never are."

"I thought," said Tommy, making his voice perfectly impersonal, "that we went over that once before."

"We did," agreed Caroline swiftly, "and I'm not going to embarrass you by bringing it up again." Then she said, and now her voice was quite as detached and unemotional as his, "How is this girl you spend so much of your time with going to like the sort of life you will be able to offer her?"

"If you mean Roxanne, and I suppose you do, I am not going to offer her any sort of life. I thought you understood that marriage was definitely out for me.... at least, for years...."

"No, I don't think I did understand that," said Caroline slowly.

"Well," said Tommy, "you do now."

"You mean that girl simply don't figure seriously in your life?" Tommy laughed briefly. "Something like that. For the time being, at least, it's a case of love them and leave them as far as I am concerned."

There was a little silence, during which the snow continued to fall lightly, rimming the edge of the vacant seat in front of them, rimming the brim of Tommy's hat where it was pulled low over his eyes. It was Tommy who spoke first. "I suppose that makes you dislike me quite a lot, doesn't it?"

"I don't know.... I suppose it should, but it doesn't seem to."

Tommy knew that if he looked at her, she would be frowning intently; he knew she was trying to figure things out and that she wasn't getting much of anywhere.

He said, "Well, it shouldn't worry you one way or the other.... you're all set with Alec. He's mad about you and he's a swell guy and worth two of me any day in the week."

"Meaning, I suppose," said Caroline levelly, "that Alec would never love me and leave me, and that you would."

"Yes," said Tommy, "meaning just that...."

Then she lifted her face to him, and quite without warning his arms went around her and he pressed his mouth hard against hers. They kissed with the snow beating whitely against their shoulders, with their arms pressed hard about each other.

It was Caroline who finally took her lips away. It was Caroline who looked at him. Her eyes darkly ashamed and tormented. She said, "I'm sorry, Tommy, but if we aren't going to do anything about each other, I think we'd better not kiss like that again."

Traffic Takes Her Mother

Shirley Rozoinshaf... weeps constantly

Refusing consolation, three-year-old Shirley Rozoinshaf cries continually in her bed in a Chicago hospital following the death of her mother in a traffic accident. Shirley and her mother were struck by an automobile at an intersection, and the girl is expected to recover.

Tommy stared at her wretchedly, his mouth still shaken from the sweetness of her kiss. He wanted to say, "But we are going to do something about each other.... we have to, don't you see?"

But there was Alec, and he couldn't. So he said instead, "You're right about that, probably. But it's one of the things you don't stop to figure out. Besides, there is something about a girl and a snowstorm.... forgive it, will you?"

"There is nothing to forgive. It was as much my fault as yours." She turned her face toward him and there was a look in her eyes and about her mouth that he had never seen before on any woman's face.... it seemed to give him everything and then take it away again. She smiled at him, and his heart broke in two. He had never known a smile like that before.... at once so burningly sweet and yet so lost and desolate.
